"If you can't help me, why am I talking to you?"

Profile: Dogged for as long as he can remember by the sense that he had lost something vitally important - that he's supposed to be part of something great - Skyfall has spent most of the last few thousand vorns charting and exploring barren star systems. All too aware of his difference from the other natives of Speed, he has chosen the life of a lone explorer, piloting his ship the Flash Frenzy to deep space destinations. He's certain he's one of the oldest Transformers on Speed, and yet he continues to function without the quirks or stalls the other old-timers seem to develop. Now he has embarked on his latest solo mission to a long forgotten planet called Cybertron where he hopes the solution to the riddle of his past will be found.

Abilities: In battle Skyfall wields a formidable 30mm cannon, double-barreled lasers and his impressive ability to shape Energon into a plasma pulse weapon. When under extreme duress, Skyfall can generate an apparently impenetrable force field made of an unidentified form of energy. He is largely unable to control this ability, but it has saved his life on more than one occasion.

Weaknesses: Aside from his inability to control his force field, Skyfall often finds himself preoccupied by the mystery that he is convinced surrounds his existence. This can distract him from other matters at hand.
